

“The International Society for Urban Health, the only global organisation focused on advancing the health of people living in cities worldwide.”

16th International Conference on Urban Health

People Oriented Urbanisation: Transforming Cities for Health and Well-Being

4–8 November 2019 • Xiamen, China

Join interdisciplinary researchers, practitioners, policy-makers, health and urban stakeholders and community leaders to exchange ideas and advance research and practice on how best to manage urbanisation for health and well-being.

Call for Papers

Submit abstracts for oral and poster presentations, pre-formed panels and workshops by 19 April 2019.

Conference themes:

- Integrated Governance, Resilience and Health Risk Reduction
- Climate Change and Healthy Cities
- Economy, Trade, Employment and Social Inclusion
- Emerging Diseases, Healthcare and Public Services
- Urban-Rural Recoupling, Soil Security and Migration
- Liveable Urban Environments, Urban Planning and Design

Conference Chairs

Franz Gatzweiler and Yong-Guan Zhu,
Institute of Urban Environment, Chinese Academy of Science, China

Jo Ivey Boufford,
President, ISUH; New York University, USA

Organised by:

Find out more and submit abstracts at:
www.ISUHconference.org

 #ISUHconference

The International Society for Urban Health is the only global professional organisation in the world that focuses exclusively on the broad determinants of urban health. ISUH understands that the health challenges and opportunities in urban environments are complex. They require interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers, educators, policy makers, practitioners, community leaders, and urban health advocates in sectors such as urban planning, architecture, transportation, housing, and environmental health and others. Learn more and become a member today.